31st SUNDAY in ORDINARY TIME, YEAR A

4 / 5 November 2023

READINGS

Malachi 1:14-2:2,8-10

You have strayed from the way, you have caused many to stumble by your teaching.

1 Thessalonians 2:7-9,13

We were eager to hand over to you not only the Good News but our lives as well.

GOSPEL

Matthew 23:1-12

They do not practise what they preach.

The book of Malachi aims to respond to the apparent delay in the earlier prophets' vision of a great restoration of Israel and Judah's fortunes. It does so initially by reminding its readers that God's love is as present in the current circumstances as it was in the past and as it will be in the future – have faith! In today's First Reading, the temple priests are called out for not living up to their covenantal responsibilities, for letting down God and the people of Israel. We see a group in a position of privilege being reminded that privileged positions within the community carry serious responsibilities, that those in positions of power and authority should care for the vulnerable and failure to fulfil these responsibilities will meet with profound consequences.

In today's Gospel evidence of the Jewish background of Matthew's community. The chair was a symbol of a teacher's authority. He sat while disciples gathered at his feet. We continue that symbolism today when a Bishop is consecrated and seated in his 'chair', or in Greek, 'kathedros' (root of Cathedral) and Universities have 'the chair of philosophy, or English'. Jesus speaks of the authority of the Pharisees to teach the Law of Moses. But he then cautions that they do not live out what they teach.

Jesus criticises the Pharisees for seeking after honour and power as depicted in various titles such as Rabbi, Master, Father, Teacher. There is no doubt that the Christian community had teachers and missionaries and apostles. What matters though is that these are roles of service for the good of the community and are not roles of honour giving a person a higher status than another. In the Christian community 'you are all brothers and sisters'. It is possible that Matthew's community were in danger of forgetting this and returning to older attitudes of hierarchies and honour systems.

Paul's letter to the Thessalonians provides a filled-out vision of Christian leadership. In the section of the letter that is today's Second Reading Paul describes his leadership style. Without denying his apostolic authority, his image of leadership is that of a nursing mother, leading with gentleness, affection, self-giving – and paying his own way through his work. In verse 11, which is not in the lectionary, Paul likens his ministry to that of a father, exhorting and encouraging his children. These two parental images express Paul's self-understanding of how he is to be within the community, based on the biblical image of God's leadership of Israel. In the Old Testament God is frequently described as a parent, as a father or mother who guides, teaches, reprimands, forgives, nurtures. This is a marked contrast to the leadership of the scribes and the Pharisees described in today's Gospel. Paul no longer teaches as he might once have, as a Pharisee; instead he teaches the essentials of Christian faith by his own example.

The words of Jesus and Paul challenge all of us, whether we have an official leadership role or not. All who profess to be a Christian should be able to say – look at me! This is what Christianity is about. We may never have the learned words to offer others, but the example of our lives ought to speak our Christian belief.

ENTRANCE: ALL ARE WELCOME

1. Let us build a house where love can dwell and all can safely live, a place where saints and children tell how hearts learn to forgive.
Built of hopes and dreams and visions, rock of faith and vault of grace;
here the love of Christ shall end divisions:
All are welcome, all are welcome, all are welcome in this place.
4. Let us build a house where hands will reach beyond the wood and stone to heal and strengthen, serve and teach, and live the Word they've known.
Here the outcast and the stranger bear the image of God's face;
let us bring an end to fear and danger:
All are welcome, all are welcome, all are welcome in this place.

APOSTLE'S CREED

I believe in God, the Father almighty, Creator of heaven and earth,
and in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord,
who was conceived by the Holy Spirit,
born of the Virgin Mary,
suffered under Pontius Pilate,
was crucified, died and was buried;
he descended into hell;
on the third day he rose again from the dead;
he ascended into heaven,
and is seated at the right hand of God the Father almighty;
from there he will come to judge the living and the dead.
I believe in the Holy Spirit, the holy catholic Church,
the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins,
the resurrection of the body,
and life everlasting.
Amen.
